

Cookie statement

When using the website of Sirius it is possible that some information is passed on to external parties because of, for example, cookies. A cookie is a small file that is sent with several pages of our website and saved by your browser on the hard drive of your computer. The cookie makes sure that the browser is recognised by the next visit on our website.

The information that is saved by Sirius and external parties can be used for the following means

- a. For functional means: to make navigating and logging in on the website of Sirius easier or to remember your settings and/or preferences for the Sirius website.
- b. For analytical means: we use cookies to analyse the use of the Sirius website via Google Analytics.

Sirius keeps the right to change this Cookie statement. Every change will be published to our website [www.siriusenschede.nl]